Conference center for county planning commission meetings and media coordination for disaster response.

The 15,000 sf, one-story conference center is designed to accommodate up to 275 people attending Planning Commission meetings, training sessions and serves as the hub for information distribution to the media during regional disaster events. Idibri's scope included acoustics, noise control, sound isolation and audio/video design for the conference center. Specialty systems include an automated broadcast video switching system and interface to local news gathering agencies.
